THE REVENUE BILLS HEARING.

Very nearly the full joint committee on Ways and Means was present last evening at the hearing in the hall of the House in the matter of House bills 123 and 321, to raise revenue from corporations. Many interested members of the House and Senate were present and a large number of citizens of the State interested in the matter.

The first witness examined was Mr. H. S. Juler, general manager of the American Express Company, of New York. Mr. Fifield examined him as to the amount of taxes levied on his company by the various States, which varied from nothing in several States to four per cent in Vermont. He allowed the railroad companies forty per cent of the gross earnings of the company. The States to four per cent in vermont. He allowed the ratiroad companies forty per cent of the gross earnings of the company. The real estate and personal property of the company in vermout is taxed in the different towns where it is located. The company pays the largest rate of taxation in vermout of any State in the Union, four per cent. Only six per cent of the gross earnings of the company was net. The capital stock is eighteen million dollars, and it pays six per cent dividends.

Mr. Fifield argued that the four per cent tax of Vermont is not actually a tax, but a license, as the company already pays taxes in the towns where they have any property. This proves on the face of it that this is double taxation of the most obnoxious kind.

Mr. J. L. Martin explained the manner in which the law of 1850 was made, he having drawn the bill which was enacted into the present law.

Tax Commissioner Bigelow explained to the committee why he omitted any reference expresses the property of the committee of the matter in consideration. He quoted the receipts from taxation from the railroad, telephone and telegraph companies in New Hampshire, as compared with this State.

Comparison was also made of the three and a fraction miles tax on railroad property here now with the tax of from ten to twenty-one miles on other large industries in the State. Was enquired of by Hon. John Young how he would appraise rail road property. Said he was not propared to answer. Was asked if the bonds of the railroads were not taxed, and if this is the to answer. Was asked if the bonds of the railroads were not taxed, and if this is the case, was it not double taxation? Was asked how a railroad could pay a tax when its gross receipts were less than its operating expenses. It appears that there are three roads in this State in this donsition.

J. I. Bacon said in answer of an inconvey opposition.

J. L. Bacon said, in answer o an inquiry from Mr. Wiides, that about $600.000 was estimated as necessary to be reised for the coming year, of which $466,000 is paid by the corporations. Mr. Wiides challenged the accuracy of Mr. Bigelow's figures. He said that the appraisal of twelve millions on the Gentral Vermont railroad was greatly in excess of its actual value. He said that the appraisal of twelve millions takes on this excessor its actual value. He said that the railroad was paying as much prorata as any individual taxpayer in the State. The road pays fity-three thousand dollars taxes on this excessive appraisal, and is the largest individual taxpayer in the State. The Central Vermont is owing eleven milion dollars today. As a matter of fact considering the condition of the road, its expenses and its indebtedness, it should properly pay on six and one-haif million dollars. An average of not more than sixty-six per cent of the property throughout the State goes into the list, while every dollar of railroad property is exposed and taxed. The Central Vermont was appraised and taxed at twelve millions, while the entire property sold for seven millions.

Mr. W. B. C. Stickney spoke in behalf of the Boston & Maine system, which operates Scio miles in the State. The Boston & K. Maine pays in taxes over $$37,000 on its.

A hearing was given last evening before the committee on corporations to the bills entitled acts to incorporate the Cold Spring Water Company and the Perry and Scribner Water Company of Barro. Those who were interested in these pending measures, including supporters and opposents, filled the Senate chamber and no stone was left unturned in the discussion of their respective merits and demerits. Many witnesses were sworn and testified, Mr. Scribner being the first. He stated that it was the intention of his company to furnish spring water solely for domestic purposes; that his system interfered with no other with few exceptions and that there was a necessity and a demand for spring water in the city. Cross examination by T. R. Gordon brought out the fact that, while his campany had made application to connect and extend its system before an injunction was ordered, which they claimed was their right, they had purchased land and made preparations for extending the system after they had been forbidden by the city to do so. Witness would not say whether his request for a charter was on the ground that he would be impoverished by continuing under present conditions.

W. A. Boyce, member of the firm of Boyce & McFarland constituting the Cold Spring Water Co., stated that he was directly interested in the bill. He had at one time lived on a street where the water was contaminated by close proximity with a sweer. In 1894 he had petitioned the city for an extension of the spring water system and read the permit granted him by the city of an extension of the spring water system and read the permit granted him by the city of an extension of the spring water system and read the permit granted him by the city of a penny or eneroach on its rights and requested a charter for his company that here might be an end to the long and harassing brigations with the city which hid repeatedly occurred. When asked if the company was accused of falling to supply the public me ds. He said he would not wrong the city of a penny or eneroach

Mr. W. B. C. Stickney spoke in behalf of the Boston & Maine system, which operates 265 miles in the State. The Boston & Msine pays in taxes over $37,000 on its various branches in Vermont.

Mr. Wildes added that the bondholders would have to pay whatever taxes were assessed on the Central Vermont. The men who operate the load see not hee men who own it. The railroads of Vermont have been reorganized for the last time. The remedy, Mr. Wildes said, was not to increase the taxation of the railroads, but to reduce State expenses, as the roads had not reduced their operating expenses.

Hon. John Young said that the St. Johnsbury and Lake Champlain railroad had not paid operating expenses were less per mile than any road in the State. It costs 105 cents to earn every 100 cents of the graces to meet it or abandoning the road. Manufacturing corporations have a right to offset all their personal assets against their debts which the roads cannot do. The Hardwick & Woodbury road paid 115 to earn every dollar it received iast pal wate, supply was subject to floods and drouths, then w s a time when spring water was absolutely needed.

T. R. Gordon harangued the committee at iderable length on various phases of the He said that taxes for the maintenance system pursued the vote and did not axtempt any innovation in the method of taxation.

President Clement said that the Rutland railroad never was assessed. That Mr. Bigelow had endeavored to create a faise impression. The quoted value of the Rutland railroad's stocks and bonds is about five million dollars, and the road pays nearly $23,000 in taxes, twenty-five per cent of its not income. Not an income of taxation, but an income of conomy was earnestly argued by Sena or Clement.

Hon. B. B. Smalley interrogated Mr. Bigelow as to the rate on cotton and woolen manufactus, and controverted his figures.

Mr. Wildes made this statemen in behalf of the Central Vermont road:
